Dhamma Pabhā

Dhamma Pabhā (which means “radiance” or “glow of Dhamma”) is nestled in a forest in the slopes of Mt Dromedary, forty minutes by road from Hobart, and is reachable by car or taxi. The nearest town, Bridgewater, is 14km away and can be reached by the Metro bus service from Hobart or Redline coaches via Launceston.

There is also a taxi service from Hobart to Dhamma Pabha via Bridgewater on the day a 10-day course starts.

Travelling from Hobart: A 10 seater taxi departs at 3:30pm on the day the course starts from the taxi stand outside the AMP building on the corner of Collins and Elizabeth Streets, which is part of the bus mall near the GPO in the city.

- The cost is $12 per person payable to the driver
- The taxi is a white Toyota Hiace
- The drive to Dhamma Pabha takes about 45 minutes.

Travelling from Launceston: A Redline coach departs from Launceston at 1:00pm. It arrives at Bridgewater around 3:30pm, stopping on the side of the Midland Highway opposite McDonald’s. Students alight at that bus stop and take the overpass to cross the highway and proceed to the McDonalds car park from where the taxi to Dhamma Pabha will leave from (at 4:00pm).

- The taxi pickup point is the grassed area opposite the main entrance to the McDonald’s building near the Disabled Parking area
- Cost is $6 per person payable to the driver
- The taxi is a white Toyota Hiace.

If you will be using the taxi service (on the day a 10-day course starts), then please advise the Course Registrar (Roger Smit) asap or at least one day before the course starts, noting whether you wish to be collected from Bridgewater or Hobart.

If driving from Hobart, turn left at the roundabout, just after the Bridgewater Bridge. Then follow this road (Boyer Road), alongside the Derwent River in the direction of New Norfolk. After approximately 4km, turn right at the sign marked 'Church Road to Upper Dromedary'.

Continue along Church Rd for another 5kms until Clarke-Stewart Rd, which branches sharply to the right. Turn into Clarke-Stewart Rd and continue for 3.5kms until you reach Dhamma Pabhā — which is situated at the very end of Clarke-Stewart Rd.
